I just got a heads up about your blog. I have read it through and through. It makes me sad to hear your side of the story in such detail. I no longer have contact with Tiffany. In fact, the last time I spoke with her was during your court case. I did ask her to just have the restraining order removed so you could both move on. Anyhow, I'd like to talk to you "off the record." I don't care if you write about it, I just would prefer my name not be used. I think some of the things I recall might be helpful to your purging/healing process. I hope so anyways. Reading your blog and remembering specific conversations has allowed me to put 2 & 2 together in a sense. They say hindsight is 20/20. Perhaps there is truth to that after all. And from one poet to another, are you writing again now? I hope ! so. Your talent is really astounding. I remember the poem you sent my daughters long ago on myspace. You know, at the time I just wanted to stay "out of it" completely. I hate conflict. I didn't know how far this whole situation would go and I have this deeply engrained distrust of the law and the courts and avoid them at all cost. Funny that "anonymous" had a brother falsely implicated too. It makes me wonder, how common is this? Because my own brother had his girlfriend and mother of his child accuse him of rape a few years ago. He went to prison for it even though she later recanted her lie, but the case was already in the courts hands and they wouldn't accept her testimony. She truly ruined his life. I guess you were spot on when you wrote about friends and loyalty. You want (I want) to believe your (my) friends. It's a lot easier to believe your friends than someone you don't really know. Thank you for granting me that concession in your writing. Did I really ! talk about panties??? I don't even remember that, surely I did! n't star t our conversation of that way, christ. Well if you'd like to have coffee and talk a bit it's on me. I don't know if what I have to say will help or not. I hope it will. I once told you I was a straight shooter and it's true. I don't lie or bend the truth, although I do avoid conflict. And that's all I ever thought this was, conflict and a whole lot of misunderstanding. Well, maybe I can fill in some blanks at this point, I guess that's all I can do (if you even want our care to hear what I have to say at this point). If you think it will help let me know, if not that's fine too. I just figured I'd be direct instead of making a "knee jerk" comment (I'm pretty sure that was not carlotta by the way, it just doesn't seem like her style). I'd like to think I'm a little more open minded than that. I donated what I could to Nona, I didn't add my name because I want sure you would accept it from me. What is the timeframe on the surgery? I ask because I have a whole lot of anima! I/dog lovers and rescues on my facebook account. We just rescued and secured a home for a wonderful female pitbull someone dumped in my yard. I'd like to link to your donation page. I know a lot of these folks will help and no animal should suffer no matter what has transpired in our past. Well now I'm beginning to ramble, I wish you both healing and the best. Let me know if you are ever up for tea or coffee and a chat. I can't promise IH will say all the things you might wish to hear, but I can promise to be truthful. ~ jen

I don't trust this media much either. I'm not 44, I'm 39 (now) ;-) I don't have a web presence at all because I really was stalked. For over 8 years. From state to state. Then I was held hostage for 48 hours, at gunpoint. 2 federal trials later (I don't have to tell you about the re-traumatization that brings about). One hung jury, finally a verdict. I've been an insomniac ever since, needless to say. I even bought my house through a trust I had to set up. Even thinking about entering a courtroom sends me into an absolute panic.

The cold hard truth is, I did know she was reveling in the attention you provided. She talked about you to EVERYONE in the college of pharmacy at the time. Her pathological need for attention all the time I guess. Later, when she "decided" you were a "threat" she made a big production of that as well. So, the anonymous poster could have been any number of people, everyone she worked or consorted with knew all of her juicy little

Arg. I am typing on my phone, this is not working out well. I will have to finish tomorrow. I really never knew all of these details. I knew she loved attention in any form and I knew you two had been close and then something happened that made her feel threatened (so she claimed) I never thought she would lie so seriously to everyone. Now I see I was duped. I was asked to support her in court and I declined. I was asked to write an affidavit and I declined. I always felt like something was not quite right but I did not know what. Reading your story in detail has allowed many things to click in to place. Carlotta is friends with my boss, she is also very close to Tiffany, hence the reason for my "off the record" request. I feel a little vulnerable doing this, but you deserve to know the truth. I think I can give you some missing pieces. Now things have become very clear to me. You might want to bring a pen and a notebook when we have coffee, and a boodle of forgiveness for my ignorance. Just let me know when. Best, jen

I hope you get this email before heading to the coffee shop! I'm pretty sick. I think I should head home for the day instead of spreading this bug around. They are chasing me out the door at work... I think that must be a signal that it's just time to give up, take some nyquil and go to bed.

I made a few notes... A brief timeline of some things I remember being told and I'm very curious about what you may or may not remember. You have documented many things in your blog that really make me suspect I was told a very different version of events in a very different order.

I'll be in town on sunday, or any time early in the week is fine too. I should be over this flu by then ? I apologize for the late email.

I hope you have a wonderful, relaxing saturday, you really deserve a day of absolute rest.

See you soon,

Jen

How about saturday afternoon or later in the day? I am finally getting over this flu, it was a whopper. I forgot my phone at home today, but I'll check it when I get back... or if you don't have other obligations tomorrow afternoon would even work great, fridays are really slow at work. I am always looking for something to do in the afternoons... other than work, that is.

Best,

jen

Hey, I'm sorry this has taken so long (getting back to you). I will write a longer email later tonight, I'm under the gun at work here, busier than I can even describe - I haven't even been sleeping. So far I have been unable to get ahold of her. I will step up my efforts this weekend. How is Nona???

Boy, I hope I didn't have any part of playing you for a chump one time! What happened to you tears me apart. Can we talk on the phone? My right hand is screwed up, its hard to type as much as I suspect I'm gonna have to. I've been thinking a whole lot about the last few emails, trying to remember... my memory is bad as it is... and during that time I was devoting my brain to the studies and research at hand, Tiffany's world was secondary... But in short, (I'll be as detailed as I can on the phone, maybe direct questions will jog my memory) She was peculiarly closed off about discussing sex or any type of intimate matters like that, oh - feelings, she talked about incessantly, but never details. I thought it a little odd because many of my girlfriends discussed their sex lives in nauseatingly detail... a lot of gals do, oh who am I kidding, women are just like men when it comes to talking about their sex lives, but Tiffany really didn't. She talked about her feelings though.

I don't think she asked me not to mention Phil, but I don't think it was something that needed to be said. We never talked about Phil at all. Like I said before, I think it was years maybe? before I knew she was married in the first place. And now, looking back, I don't even know if I ever met him at all or just saw his picture. Isn't that weird?

She didn't really use the word affair, but she made it sortove known that she had "crushes" on different people and of course made it known that people (seemingly many people) had "crushes" on her. I would call it "considering an affair" - as an adult, that's how I would place a name to a behavior. But curiously, the way she talked about "sex" was almost middle-schoolish. Is that a religious upbringing thing? She did talk about her marriage as if she was dissatisfied with it, she talked about the marriage as if it were a separate thing from Phil. Does that make any sense? I mean, it was almost as if he and the marriage were entirely different things. His name never came up, etc. Ug, have to work a little... more in a bit.
I'll have my phone in the lab w/ me if you call 461-7453

Jen, don't worry about talking with Tiffany. I don't think you'd have any effect or luck, anyway. Do, though, give me a few more details: (1) What did Tiffany say about her love life with Phil? (2) Did Tiffany tell you not to mention her being married when you came to my home/house? (3) What were the contexts of Tiffany's talking about an affair (how often, over what period), and did she talk about this with others beside you and Carlotta? Thanks.

P.S. I noticed you first wrote to me on April Fool's Day. You wouldn't play me for a chump twice, would you?

Wow, she sure looks different! I highly doubt she will do anything that would call attention to the matter. If she is a sociopath I suspect she will get as much "poor me" attention type pity of your blog as it is. It is very curious that she has not responded to it, at all!

I meant to say fell, I really dislike my phones autocorrect function.

I am starting to feel really terrible. I am an avid reader of your blog. I reached out because I wanted to help if I could, and now I feel like I potentially made your world a little worse. I don't want to do that. I had hoped upon hope that I could help somehow help set some things to rest and possibly assist in your return to that writing "place" in your soul again, you are such a rare talent. God, you really are. I think that was a presumptuous thought on my part... that I could try and "fix" anything. I was just so dumbstruck by what a read and remembered. I felt like I had to do something, say something...

I don't want to see the events of the past (present) take away the rest of your life as a writer. I'm a writer as well and I know how much your "internal being" has to be in harmony with the world you live in - in order to even put pen to paper. Being a writer is difficult enough. I can't even begin to imagine what the past years have been like for you. I just hope I didn't make a mistake by saying the things I did. I hoped to help fill in some gaps. I thought it might help. Now I wonder if I hurt you even more. This whole situation weighs heavily. Did I hurt more than help? Boy, I hope not.
